

Welcome to MCC!

Congratulations on your acceptance to Middlesex County College. Did you know that you can obtain an affordable, quality education right in your backyard? Last year, the Middlesex County College New Brunswick Center, one of two MCC satellite centers, celebrated thirty years of service in the New Brunswick area. The New Brunswick Center offers a wide range of credit and non-credit classes along with key academic support services. It attracts a very diverse population and has a reputation for creating a welcoming environment for all who visit. The Center is conveniently located within walking distance to downtown, public transportation, major corporations and hospitals.

Starting your college career couldn't be easier with classes offered mornings, afternoons, evenings and Saturdays at the New Brunswick Center. You'll be part of a dynamic learning environment with faculty who will know you by name. Many of the same support services that are offered at the Edison campus are also available at the New Brunswick Center. Students who take classes at the New Brunswick Center often comment on the positive experience that results from small class sizes, convenience of location, and the camaraderie they develop with faculty, staff and other students.

Whether you have your mind made up on your career or are completely undecided, the New Brunswick Center can head you in the right direction with the classes and services you need to support your success.
